RESPONDING IN OUR CITIES ANNUAL REPORT

July 1, 2013 to June 30, 2014

THE CONTEXT OF OUR

The world's population is migrating to major urban centers. Complex humanitarian emergencies now occur in cities like Damascus, Kabul and Nairobi.

WORK IS CHANGING...

Local emergency responders join relief workers in bringing aid to victims. We need them all to be resilient before, during, and after each disaster.

FINDING NEW WAYS TO HELP...

Our location in Los Angeles enables us to understand the challenges facing other major cities of the world. Local emergency first-responders are now included in our work.

WE ARE OFFERING training, counseling, and consulting to promote their resilience and trauma recovery.

WE ARE DEVELOPING scalable, effective, inexpensive services for large humanitarian organizations and major municipal emergency response agencies.

WE ARE DISCOVERING new ways to measure and increase personal and team resilience.

WE ARE UTILIZING innovative technology and online media platforms to widely share vital information.

AID WORKERS WORLDWIDE RELY ON US

WE TRAVELED to the following cities to provide training, counseling, and consulting:

Baltimore, MD	Kep, Cambodia	Riverside, CA
Burlington, VT	Los Angeles, CA	Samar, Philippines
Cambridge, MA	Melbourne, Australia	Seattle, WA
Cape Town, South Africa	Nairobi, Kenya (twice)	Swellendam, South Africa
Dubai, UAE	Oslo, Norway	Zamorano, Honduras (twice)
Hammelburg, Germany	Pasadena, CA

More than 1,000 hours of psychological care were provided remotely to those with no other resource.

More than 157,000 online visitors used our website, blog, YouTube videos, Facebook page, and mobile app to support their well-being and trauma recovery.
